Green Building Council Italia in Horizon 2020

HORIZON 2020

The Green Building Council Italia (GBC Italia) is a non-profit association that is part of the international network of GBCs present in many countries worldwide. We are a member of World GBC, part of the Europe Regional Network and partner of USGBC. In simple terms, our Mission is to promote a process of transformation of the Italian construction market toward the design, construction and operation of healthy, energy-efficient buildings with low environmental impact. We promote the independent certification system LEED® Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design, variants of this protocol for specific types of buildings (Home / Historical) and also other sustainability rating and certification schemes. Amongst our members, you'll find the most important and influential construction and building stakeholders in Italy (public and private).

Part of our internationalization strategy is to participate in the Horizon 2020 Framework Programme. In projects, we typically contribute in the areas of training, standardization, dissemination, screening our member base for surveys related to market needs, advocacy, and creating the conditions for B2B collaboration and true actions that lead to sustainability uptake and impact across the topic areas of energy efficiency, water and resource efficiency, industrial efficiency, the circular economy (building products), building operation, building certification and how buildings interact with their surroundings (transport and the smart grid). We have a PIC, are expert in proposal and project processes, and experience in various types of funding instruments. If you are building a project in these areas, consider GBC Italia. We are ready to work together toward a more sustainable future.

Some remarks about us:

- GBC is the largest sustainability network worldwide. We are present in 70 countries and have over 49000 member organizations.
